

James Webb Space Telescope

The Webb Telescope will be the largest ever launched into space. It will see the faintest light in the Universe, so we can understand how the first stars and galaxies formed.